

Date of Release: 4th January 2010

NEWCASTLE BUILDING SOCIETY'S NEW APPOINTMENT ADDS UP

The largest building society based in the North East is delighted to announce the appointment of Michael Noone as its new Head of Newcastle Financial Services.

Michael's main role at Newcastle Building Society will be to guide and develop its financial advice division working with a team of 35 experienced financial planning consultants and business partners.

With more than 20 years of experience in the financial services industry, Michael has worked for various organisations. This includes leading the direct sales team in a global financial company, as well as the role as a Business Development Manager with wealth management company St James' Place.

Michael Noone, Head of Newcastle Financial Services, said: "After more than two decades in the financial industry I am really pleased I can bring my knowledge and expertise to a growing organisation like Newcastle Financial Services.

"These are really exciting times for the company as we are very ambitious to grow the business and develop the financial advice that's on offer, which is available to the Society's members through its branch and home visit networks."

Wendy Lee, Commercial Director at Newcastle Building Society, added: "During the transitional period the financial industry finds itself in it is very important to us that our members feel they can talk to knowledgeable members of staff and get trusted financial advice.

"Having Michael at the helm of Newcastle Financial Services is great as he brings an abundance of experience to the role, which will be an enormous advantage to his specialist team of advisers and customers alike."

-ENDS-